The Old World is a living hell, full of Plague, Locusts, Bandits and ghastly Death himself. The dead do not rest easily in the graveyards of the Old World. So it was only a matter of time before a Necromancer would decide to shackle these unstoppable killing machines with arcane and powerful magics, and soothe their tortured souls with a nice game of Blood Bowl! The Necromantic are a very versatile race, but their best players are their Werewolves. These lethal killing machines are their main attacking force, providing pure psychopathic fury and claws that can render armour utterly useless. The main dilemma for a Necromantic Coach is how to replace his more specialized players when they get pounded into the ground, never to rise again. Zombies are easy to find, shambling around any old graveyard in the dead of night, but the more useful players, such as the Flesh Golems and Werewolves, can cost a hefty sum to replace. The Old World of Blood Bowl 2 is a living hell. You have been summoned by the Lord of the Undead. You are the most powerful Necromancer of them all. The Undead are suffering under the terrible plague

I've been a B&N member for about 5 years-some of my books are there. If I buy a B&N paperback it goes in my Nook; if it's a Nook book then it goes in the Nook. Up until now, I've never noticed anything about storage space on my account or bought different kinds of media (books, audio books, vinyl, etc.) from them but I recently discovered that I can buy ebooks from B&N, i.e. Amazon to Kindle not my smartphone. Where does the content show up on the two accounts?Q: how to create a DataGrid that can be filtered, sorted and scrollable using MVVM? I use mvvm light in WPF 4.0 application. I have DataGrid in my view with columns that are constructed of custom cells in my viewmodel. I'm using command binding to add/modify/remove datagrid rows. In the control template for the DataGrid Cell I'm assigning a DataGridCheckBoxColumn. I need to implement filtering, sorting and scrolling of my DataGrid. I cannot seem to filter my custom cells directly. Using the DataGridCheckBoxColumn

Robots in Disguise is a complex, logical, yet beautiful puzzle game that seamlessly combines tactical strategy with puzzle-solving. Collect and build resources, unlock upgrades, and manage your robot team for the ultimate fighting machine. Over 60 Unique Game Modes, including Multi-Story Coop and Versus 48 beautifully crafted mini-games, perfect for any puzzle fan Upgrades to add even more strategy and tactical depth to the core game An epic single-player story with multiple endings, and a high replay value A wide variety of exclusive characters, each with their own fighting style and unique skill Beside the main story that takes you through 22 unique game worlds, Robots in Disguise has a lot of independent mini-games, as well as a co-op mode that lets you play with a second controller, and a multiplayer mode which includes a bunch of exclusive characters. You can play it alone or with a friend - in fact, the game will support a gamepad, keyboard and mouse, or a gamepad if you have a Move controller. Robots in Disguise is for fans of puzzle games, focusing on action and strategy, but also included a huge amount of mini-games that I found to be well made and unique. There's a wide variety of mechanics, offering us more than 60 exclusive puzzles, and an absolute insane amount of collectables, which in fact added up to a lot more than I expected. If you've ever played a puzzle game like Lemmings or Populous, you'll instantly recognize the same mechanics and design, but just taken to an unknown level. The difficulty in the game is, like in most puzzle games, a tad bit hard, considering I never managed to get past the first puzzle in the endgame or even get to the mission base. But it's not impossible if you have the right tools and set of skills, and unlike most other puzzle games, the difficulty of the mini-games are pretty well balanced. The game has a vibrant art style, each of the robots is unique, well animated, with a fantastic art direction that does amazing things with the mechanics. The backgrounds are fantastic in their own right, and the characters are well designed. My only minor gripe is the game lacks a tutorial, as I ended up having to explore the game world before I really understood all of the mechanics and game mechanics, but they try to explain the essentials over time in the game. Last week I discovered some of “mysterious items” while I was clearing out my storage unit. I quickly learned what they were: largely unused potions I had acquired quite some time ago. A French blue cup, a small rust colored cup, a tiny green glass bottle, a significant-looking blister pack and about three bottles. I’m not sure when I acquired the first two on the list. At least one of them was made in the US (the blue one), and the green one is German (I figure, I bought it in Rome last year at some small souvenir stand). The bottles - I had no clue: They were all from the store where I bought the hand lotion I use to clean my work gloves. Anyway, at that time, I didn’t know who made them - it didn’t really matter which one, as they would all do the same thing anyway: Actually serve as a mini-absorber, a reservoir of energy, a reservoir to fill the house with a pleasant scent. I pulled out some old perfume I had stored (wanted to get rid of the old suitcase for the second time, I was tired), sprayed some - & I went on with life. But enough about that - back to the story: Spring comes around, the weather is getting better, people who love to smell flowers are getting some florals for their home. They clean the house, the windows, the doormat, the fireplace, etc. & they spray some perfume on the last little petal of their rose petals they were able to gather. Somehow, they’re “scented” (the florals replace the odor, but in a very diluted way - mild and pleasing). The scent is concentrated only in their house. And I distinctly remember watching the scene on TV when people realized that flowers smell differently when you remove the petals. Obviously, you'll never have the same enjoyment that you would have inhaling the flower while it is still in bloom. The interesting thing for me - is that at that time I didn't know what a spray bottle is. I know now what they do, of course - they spray the house walls with a "scented" florals and that way they also create a beautiful scent everywhere. No one ever said anything to me about being a shower spray bottle, or an artisan bottle.

VR gaming in a fresh new way. You are the commander of your very own starships. Let the fights begin! The story: What started as an idea to make a fun, multiplayer space game, quickly grew into an ambitious project. In 2016, the team decided to combine their backgrounds to form the Starship Commander team and started to develop a unique and immersive space combat game, based on a customizable single or multiplayer gameplay, fully dedicated to motion. Starship Commander is a multiplayer space combat game where you pilot your starship through the numerous galaxies you can explore. You will be joining your friends in a galaxy full of secrets and challenges: Defeat other crews by doing boarding actions, defend your base from incoming attacks, or just enjoy the galactic show! But the most important thing is to have fun! It's time to find out who is the best in our galaxy, and be the first to win the glory! The technology: Starship Commander's innovative controls allow you to fully immerse yourself in the action. Hold down a button to move your starship with the motion controller, or use the touchpad on your PC or in VR. Your friends can play with one hand on a regular PC, or they can use the motion controller as if they were holding on to your starship. Make a fist as if you are pressing a button, while the motion controller in the other hand does the same. It's easy to learn and easy to control, giving you full access to all of the game's features. Your Starship is futuristic. You can customize it, and your friend's Starship are all at your disposal. Starfighters have a cool futuristic look. Their color palette offers you the possibility to create your own model of spaceships. You can customize the shape, with 5 different shapes to choose from, and 9 different colors
